What is 6063-T5 ?

6063:6063 aluminum alloy is an aluminum-magnesium-silicon alloy, mainly composed of aluminum (Al) and elements such as magnesium (Mg) and silicon (Si) are added to improve its properties. This alloy has moderate strength, good corrosion resistance, weldability and easy processing, -T5:

This part indicates the heat treatment state of the aluminum alloy.

The T5 state means that the alloy has been artificially aged to improve its strength and hardness. Specifically, the T5 state is achieved by heating the alloy to the solution treatment temperature, then rapidly cooling (quenching), followed by artificial aging at a lower temperature to achieve the desired physical and mechanical properties.

Insulating glass:

Insulating glass is a high-performance sound-insulating and heat-insulating glass made of two or more pieces of glass, which is bonded to an aluminum alloy frame containing a desiccant using a high-strength and high-airtightness composite adhesive. Insulating glass plays an important role in modern architecture with its superior performance and wide range of applications.

Fixed Windows:

Fixed windows are non-operable windows that do not open or close. They are designed primarily to provide natural light, enhance views, and improve the aesthetic appeal of a space. Fixed windows are an excellent option for enhancing natural light and views while providing durability and energy efficiency. Their aesthetic appeal and versatility make them a popular choice for various architectural applications. Adds beauty to both the interior and exterior of a home, creating a modern and elegant look. Many fixed windows feature low-emissivity coatings that help control heat gain and loss. Built to withstand various weather conditions without the wear that moving parts might experience.
